A pretty wedding took place last night at the home of Mr. and Mrs.

George R. Phillips, 1919 K Street, when their daughter, Anita Veronica, was married to Gilbert C. Smith, lieutenant in the Second Cavalry, U. S. A. The ceremony was celebrated by Chaplain C. C. Pierce, of Fort Myer.

The drawing rooms of the Phillips home were tastefully decorated with a profusion of roses and pansies and the Artillery Band from Fort Myer played a wedding march as the bride entered the room on the arm of her father and preceded by her younger brother, George Phillips, who acted as ring-bearer and carried the bride's bouquet on a silver tray. The only other attendant was Miss Rosa Brown, the flower girl.

The bride wore a gown of white chiffon, built on satin and applied with lace. Her veil was of tulle, her flowers lilacs of the valley. The groom wore the full dress uniform of his rank. A reception was held after the ceremony at which many army and navy people were present. A buffet supper was served.

Summer Resort Gossip.

Mrs. S. Van Rensselaer Cruger has abandoned her projected trip abroad, and will spend the greater part of the summer at Newport, where she will be the guest of Mrs. J. P. Kernochan.

CHINESE ADMITTED IN VIOLATION OF LAW

Obtained Improper Certificates as "Merchants."

The State Department has started an investigation of the action of certain consular officials in China who have signed certificates which have enabled so-called Chinese "merchants" to come to the United States. The Chinese exclusion act prohibits the admission of Chinese laborers, but does provide that bona fide Chinese merchants may come to this country for a stated period for the purpose of transacting business.

In order to do so these merchants obtain a certificate of their standing and business from their local authorities, which must be indorsed by the nearest United States consuls before they are accepted by the customs officials of American ports. The consuls are directed to make personal investigation in each case where a Chinese merchant makes application for the indorsement of a certificate, in order that no fraud may be practiced.

Recently the attention of the State and Treasury Departments has been called to evasions of the law, either through the negligence or culpability of American consuls. Chinese of low degree have applied for admittance on the Pacific Coast, representing themselves as "merchants," and producing properly indorsed certificates. The matter was referred to Assistant Secretary Pelce, and he has caused an investigation to be begun.

It is not known how many Chinamen have gained admittance to this country by these fraudulent certificates, but it is believed the inquiry which the department is now making will end the practice. No direct charges have been made against any diplomatic or consular officer, and, for the present, at least, the Department is willing to regard the matter as one of unconscious neglect rather than willful violation of the law on the part of American consuls.

MANITOBA CROPS FLOURISHING.

WINNIPEG, Manitoba, June 16.—The government's official bulletin reports that the crops in all sections of the province of Manitoba have been sown under most favorable conditions, and that the outlook is most promising. The season is two weeks earlier than heretofore. The Manitoba wheat acreage is increased about 20 per cent.

ATTRACTIONS IN RETAIL STORES.

S. KANN, SONS & CO.—The hosiery department of "The Busy Corner" will no doubt prove the rendezvous for the economical. The goods offered are newly imported and are selling at prices astonishingly low.

SAKS & COMPANY—The men of Washington should certainly visit the Saks Stores while their latest suit sale is in progress. This opportunity cannot but appeal to those desiring to be correctly attired at a price that is in keeping with the average man's purse.

WILLIAM HAHN & CO.—Announce the closing days of the "Young Folks' Low-Shoe-Sale," which for the last ten days has crowded the doors of "The Three Reliable Shoe Houses." The adults will also find it to their advantage to visit this store during the week.

EDEN IS IN TURMOIL; CAUSE, FAIR TEACHER

Town Wakes Up When Principal Accuses Professor.

PARKERSBURG, W. Va., June 16.—Shepherdstown was a quiet, peaceful village until Prof. E. G. Goodwin, principal of Shepherd College, preferred charges against Salome Windgate, who is professor of music, and a pretty young woman. Now the college is being guarded by deputy sheriffs, for fear that harm will be done the buildings, and the whole town is in an uproar.

Miss Windgate is popular, and the announcement of Prof. Goodwin's accusations divided the citizens sharply in opposing factions. The board of regents held court on the charges, and Miss Windgate was exonerated.

This decision intensified the feeling between the factions. Two married women, members of different sides, met on the street and started to discuss the situation.

They clinched and fought until both fell exhausted. Friends pulled them apart. The husband of one of the combatants went hunting for Prof. Goodwin.

To his defense the students rallied, and formed a guard, which accompanies him whenever he goes abroad.

Sheriff Blininger called out the college cadets to repel a threatened invasion of the college. A riot ensued; Prof. Goodwin fled, but the cadets held their ground.

Prof. Goodwin has returned, but the feeling is still bitter, and more trouble is expected.

ANNUAL OUTING OF ALMAS TEMPLE

Almas Temple, Mystic Shrine, is having its annual outing at Marshall Hall today. A large number of Mascons, accompanied by their families, left for the popular river resort at 10:30 this morning, and another party started down the river at 2:30. Additional boats will be run at 6:30 and 6:45 this evening for the accommodation of persons who were unable to join with the Mascons in their day's celebration and desire to see the fireworks tonight.

The proceeds of today's excursion will be used for the Christmas dinner charity fund. Samuel W. Stinemetz is chairman of the entertainment committee, and has arranged an interesting athletic program, including a baseball game.

M. GOLDENBERG—In all the departments of "The Dependable Store" may be found "money-savers." Especially attractive is the lace department, where a sale offering extraordinary opportunities is in progress.

THE SPEEDY OUTLET COMPANY—The underpricing and underselling in progress at the retiring sale of this firm is attracting crowds of shoppers. The greatest bargains the establishment has ever offered are now here. It will pay you to attend the sale.

HUB FURNITURE COMPANY—The splendid line of go-carts is attracting considerable attention, due no doubt to the complete assortment of goods shown. The "Summer Necessities" department contains many home needs correctly priced.

WOMAN OF HIGH BIRTH PLAYS STREET ORGAN

British Widow Concealing Name, Used Odd Method to Educate Her Daughters.

DETROIT, June 16.—In the hope of obtaining enough pennies to educate her two beautiful young daughters and to save her home in Johannesburg, South Africa, a handsome English woman of high birth and former wealth and social position went into the streets of Detroit this morning and played a hand organ for a livelihood.

Although she conceals her real name, calling herself Mrs. N. S. Ingram, it is said that she is a daughter of Matthew Collins, once a famous mathematician and professor in Dublin College, Ireland. She is known here, however, merely as the "British widow."

Mrs. Ingram is said to have credentials from men of the highest station in England, and from British army officers in South Africa, but she says in spite of them she has been unable to earn a living in any of the vocations usually open to women.

"My relatives do not know what I am doing," she added. "The idea was suggested to me by the story of Viscount Hinton playing a hand organ in the streets of London. It is not easy for a woman reared in luxury all her life and not equipped for the battle of business life to find means of earning a living."

"The positions of governess, music teacher and that sort of thing no longer afford even a pittance, and as I could find no way to independence in England I came here, and I'm trying to earn in the streets the pennies I could not get in a drawing-room."

A BROOKLYN WOMAN PRAISES NEW KING

NEW YORK, June 16.—Mrs. James Glasford, of 29 Berkeley Place, Brooklyn, was as Johanne Pfister "useful companion" to two sisters of King Peter's wife, daughters of the Prince of Montenegro. King Peter, then Prince Kara-Georgovitch, lived across the street from his father-in-law, at Cetinje, the tiny capital of the tiny state over which the Prince of Montenegro rules.

Mrs. Glasford lived in the center of the intimate domestic life of the two families, and was in a position to observe the pretender, as he was then called, as a husband and father. She is his profound admirer; indeed, she worships both the Kara-Georgovitch and Montenogro families, and declares that it is a lucky day for Serbia when the "rightful owner" of the throne again sits upon it.

Mrs. Glasford exhibited yesterday several photographs of the members of the two families. One, a family group, was taken by Kara-Georgovitch himself, who was a fine amateur photographer, and bears the impress of "P. Kara," the sobriquet under which he did some literary work.

"I am sorry that I could not have then known that George, the son of Peter, would today be the heir apparent to the Serbian throne, for then I should have had him and his nurse in the photograph. He was then under a year old, and was at the moment out driving with his nurse. His brother Alexander was not yet born."

"Prince Kara-George called everyone about him one day on the lawn of the palace and said he wanted to take a group picture. This is the result. He grunted only a few, and when it was discovered that there was none for me, his wife asked him to make one for me. He did it cheerfully, as he did everything else, for he was one of the loveliest men in his home life that I have ever known."
